GAME HALTED AS FANS CHASE TWO IN FREE-FOR-ALL

New Oxford Man Run Off Field at Littlestown During League Game Saturday.

A baseball game that turned to a free-for-all and which was continued after hostilities had ceased was played at Littlestown Saturday. As a result of the melee, Timothy Noel, of New Oxford, has been fined $5 by Burgess Zeigler, of Littlestown, on a charge of fighting and disturbing the peace and he will again appear for a hearing this evening before Justice of the Peace Mayer on a charge of assault and battery preferred by James Snyder, of near Littlestown, who is said to have suffered a fractured nose at the hands of Noel.

The game, between Littlestown and New Oxford, had been going along smoothly until Umpire Morrison, of New Oxford, called Casner, Littlestown player, out on a close play at first base. Casner protested the decision and went toward Morrison to protest, when it is said Timothy Noel and his brother, Bernie Noel, both of New Oxford, went on to the field near to the place where the player and the umpire were standing. Then things began to happen.

According to persons in the grandstand, the two New Oxford fans had not progressed very far until they were surrounded by a group of nearly 150 Littlestown fans, who, thinking that the two men were about to harm their player, went to his succor. Fists began to fly, and the two New Oxford fans, seeing that they were outnumbered almost one-hundred to one, took to their heels, with a crowd estimated at least fifty in close pursuit. They ran a distance, which according to the umpire was so far that the game had to be held up fifteen minutes until the catcher for the Littlestown team could return.

In the melee, Snyder had his nose badly banged, allegedly by Timothy Noel, and the latter and his brother were badly bruised by stones and fists, one of them claiming that he was trampled on so badly that his shirt was torn from his back and his body badly bruised.

Timothy Noel was arrested by the Littlestown borough officer and taken before Burgess Zeigler, who assessed a fine of $5, which Noel had to pay before he was permitted to shake the dust of Littlestown from his feet.

It is understood that warrants will be issued within a short time for eight or ten other persons, known to have taken part in the fracas by Burgess Zeigler.

In the meantime the baseball fans of New Oxford and McSherrystown are wrathful over the occurrence and it is expected that it will be the subject of heated debate at the meeting of the directors of the county league teams which is scheduled for Thursday night at McSherrystown.

According to directors of the New Oxford team, they will not permit their team to play at Littlestown unless better police protection is furnished, and it understood that the directors of the McSherrystown team are willing to take the same stand.

In the meantime a collection has been taken up at New Oxford to help Timothy Noel fight the charges of assault and battery lodged against him by Snyder. The hearing is set for tonight and it is expected that the New Oxford man will be represented by a local attorney.

Kiddies of Town are Invited To Annual Picnic August 25 At Marsh Creek by Lions Club

Children at Hoffman and Paradise Orphanages Will Romp With Local Boys and Girls at Annual Fete; Boys' Band of Gettysburg Will Furnish Music for the Occasion; Have Plenty To Eat.

Place a large "X" on August 25 of your calendars, boys and girls of Gettysburg, for that is the day of your annual picnic, given by the Lions' club.

Do you remember what a good time you had last year at Marsh Creek Heights? There were baseball, games and contests, swimming, boating and fishing. Everything was lovely, wasn't it?

The service club fixed the afternoon of Thursday, August 25, for its annual treat for Gettysburg's small army of boys and girls at its regular meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg, Monday evening. It represents a last, grand splurge of fun and frolic before the bells of the public and parochial schools recall the children to their books.

Several thousand children took advantage of the picnic last year, and if the weather is favorable, this yeaf's attendance may be expected to surpass that of 1926.

At the same time, the Lions will have as their special guests the less fortunate children of the Hoffman orphanage, near Littlestown, and the Paradise protectorate, near Abbottstown.

As a special feature this year, the Gettysburg boys' band will play at the heights during the afternoon.

As usual, "the sky will be the limit" on free refreshments, the Lions planning to treat the children to ice cream cones, pretzels and soda water.

The children will be well-chaperoned during the afternoon, and transportation to and from the summer resort will be provided by the club. Games and contests will be under the supervision of persons trained in that work.

Professor Tyson, of Upper Darby, a member of the faculty of the summer school at Gettysburg college, was the speaker at the Monday evening meeting of the club.

Army "Blimp" Hovers over Gettysburg to Photograph Entire Battlefield Today

Makes Final Flourish by Dropping Low While Passing Over Center of Town; Completes Work After Four Hours Drifting Over Scene of Battle; Wanted By Army Department at Washington.

With a parting swoop over the center of town, which brought hundreds of interested spectators to the streets and to windows of houses and buildings, the army semi-rigid airship TC-5 sailed southward in the direction of Washington at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon after spending several hours over the historic battlefield.

The large silver-coated ship came here from Washington, arriving at 10:15 o'clock. When it sailed in, the cigar-shaped aerial visitor was about 2,500 feet up, but the sound of the engines, resembling the drone of an airplane, was plainly audible to those on the ground.

The purpose of the trip, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, was to make aerial pictures of the battlefield for study purposes in the army's tactical school.

The TC-5 rode at various altitudes during its three-hour visit and cruised over practically the entire field. When it arrived, it made a complete circuit of the town, and headed southward, being soon lost to sight in the cloudy atmosphere several thousand feet up.

This gave rise to the belief that the ship's crew had accomplished its purpose and was returning to Washington and Langley Field, Virginia, permanent base of the big craft. But later the blimp returned and "rode at anchor" at various strategic points over the battlefield. From 12 until after 1 o'clock, the blimp held a position over the cavalry field, east of town.

Then its shiny tip was nosed downward until the ship was so low that features of men at windows in the cabin under the bag were easily discernible. Only three soldiers were seen at the windows of the cabin, and it is not known how extensive the crew was.

When the TC-5 was within a few hundred feet of the ground, the navigator steered a course from the northern end of Carlisle street to the southern end of Steinwehr avenue, presumably to give local residents an opportunity to see the ship at close quarters.

Men at the windows in the cabin waved their hands to those persons who sought vantage points, waving greetings and a farewell in return.

This was the first time the field has been photographed from an army dirigible, although numerous airplane pictures have been taken by service and private fliers.

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—The RS-1 the army's largest dirigible on a tour of Eastern cities arrived here from Langley field today at 11 a. m.

M. D. Dilley, of South Bend, Indiana, suffered numerous lacerations about the head and face in an automobile accident at the intersection of the Emmitsburg road and West Confederate avenue this morning. Mrs. Dilley, who was with her husband in their light coupe, escaped injury.

According to the commanding officer of the local substation of the highway motor patrol, who investigated the accident, Mrs. Wayne M. Keet, Chambersburg street, was driving south on the Emmitsburg road. Dilley's machine was crossing the concrete highway on the avenue, when Mrs. Keet's car and the visitor's automobile collided, the Diller car being shoved off the road and against a fence.

The light coupe was so badly damaged that it had to be towed to a local garage for repairs. Mrs. Keet was able to proceed in her car.

SONS OF VETS TO GO INTO CAMP

Rejuvenated Regiment Here to Spend Three Days in Training This Week.

On the first serious tour of field service in recent years, twenty members of Co. B, 6th regiment, Pennsylvania reserves, Sons of Veterans, will go into camp for four days at Seven Stars Thursday. In the woods of the farm of R. E. Deardorff, clerk to the Adams county commissioners, along the Lincoln Highway, the local troops will pitch camp.

The Sons of Veterans' reserves have taken a new lease on life, and have about fifty members on their roster. George Hughes, of Gettysburg, is captain and commanding officer of the unit.

The field service is necessary before the members are allowed to wear service stripes, indicating that they had been in camp the length of time prescribed by their regulations.

The camp of the local reserves will be conducted along strictly military lines, and during the day the soldiers will conduct drills and study field problems in the same way as outlined for regular army troops.

Sunday has been designated as visitors' day, and a special dinner has been arranged for members of the Sons of Veterans' auxiliary, the Corporal Skelly G. A. R. post and friends.

The local company is working strenuously to become headquarters' company, now located at York, and plans to go to the regimental encampment at York Haven in the fall with an invitation for the regiment to meet here next year. The regimental encampment consumes a week and between 500 and 700 Sons of Veterans usually attend.

$32,000 PROVIDED TO REPAY COST OF TUBERCULIN COWS

Many County Herds Pass Tests; More Expected To Be Examined In Short Time.

Approximately $32,000 of a $2,160,000 fund has been allocated Adams county for payment in indemnity claims for cattle killed after unfavorable reaction to the tuberculin test, R. E. Underwood, Adams county farm agent, said today after a conference in Harrisburg Monday with Dr. T. E. Munce, director of the bureau of animal industry, state department of agriculture.

Of the amount available for Adams county, approximately $8,000 may be used between now and January 1, 1928, and tuberculin tests, authorized by Doctor Munce in Adams county, will be given in the order in which applications are received by Mr. Underwood.

Mr. Underwood was accompanied to Harrisburg by Mr. Stokes, manager of the Hanover branch of the Western Maryland dairy company, which already has 150 accredited herds in Adams county from which to draw for its supply of milk. These herds are located in the vicinity of Fairfield, Littlestown, Bonneauville, Two Taverns and Hanover.

The company is anxious to secure more accredited herds in the county as soon as possible, and to expedite the work the concern, with headquarters in Baltimore, will send a tester to Adams county.

One-half of all the cattle in Pennsylvania are now tested for tuberculosis. On July 1, a total of 630,000 head of the total cattle population of 1,280,000 had been given the test one or more times, according to Doctor Munce.

Judging by the rapid rate at which cattle have been tested during the past few years, it is predicted by bureau officials that bovine tuberculosis will be reduced to less than one-half of one per cent by the end of 1933, providing adequate funds are made available during the intervening years and the interest of the cattle owners and cooperating agencies continues.

Funds for the biennium 1927-1929 total $2,160,000 and will provide for more than a million tuberculin tests. These tests will include the retesting of herds already given one or more tests as well as new herds.

PLANE USED TO SPEED JUSTICE

McKeen County Officer Flies to Harrisburg To Get Extradition Papers.

Harrisburg, July 26.—(AP)—An airplane was pressed into service today by the McKeen county authorities to speed justice when J. J. Allison, county detective, alighted at Middletown army air field, near here, with papers asking a requisition on New York state authorities for the return of Fred Brougham from Mayfield New York, to Bradford. It is the first time in the history of Pennsylvania that an airplane has been pressed into service for this purpose. Mr. Allison said that McKeen county officials only have until 10 a. m. tomorrow to claim Brougham, wanted on charges of felonious assault with intent to kill and robbery.

The detective said that he and the pilot, Lieut. Harry Emery, left Bradford this morning but were held up at Curewensville by fog and forced to land. This afternoon they expect to reach Albany, obtain the extradition papers and return to Bradford tonight.

Tomorrow morning they will fly to Pittsburgh where they will obtain Herbert Weiss, now in the western penitentiary, and then fly to Mayfield from Pittsburgh. He explained that Weiss was needed for the purpose of identification.

The plane is privately owned.

Washington, July 26.—A tentative valuation of $71,219,111, a little more than half the gross capitalization of $138,893,955.90, was put on the property of the Western Maryland Railway company yesterday by the Bureau of Valuation of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Property owned by the company but not used (consisting of short lines leased to other roads) was valued at $9,083, while property used by the Western Maryland but owned elsewhere (being lines leased from other roads) was given a tentative value of $2,932,716. With these allowances, the value of the property owned was set at $71,228,194, and the property used, $74,151,827.

Land Valued At $7,164,360

The bureau arrived at the valuation figure as of June 30, 1919, and the cost of reproduction now was estimated at $71,736,695. The cost or reproduction, less depreciation, was shown as $59,868,010. These figures do not include the cost of land. Land costs were cited separately, and the 8,493 acres owned by the company were valued at $7,164,360.

The gross capitalization is divided into $77,167,198.40 in stock and $61,526,757.50 for funded debt. Investment in road and equipment, according to the company's report to the commission, amounts to $127,143,001.08.

It is shown by the report that the carrier owns and holds for non-carrier purposes $25,956,237 par-value securities in other companies which are recorded in its account at $11,878,456.

Protest Is Expected

Observers of railway valuation cases say the Western Maryland is almost certain to protest the figure. Under the Interstate Commerce Commission law, the carrier has thirty days in which to file such protest. The case then would be argued before the whole commission as a preliminary to the fixing of a final valuation.

So few attain that that nice balance midway between inferiority complex and swellhead.

What "sticks" is that region where a thief is just a thief instead of a master criminal.

ONCE TOAST OF VIENNA!

Many years ago Anne Novak was belle of the Viennese stage and in the favor of Emperor Franz Josef. Today, at seventy-seven, she lives by the generosity of friends. Their attention was called to her dire straights when she was evicted from her New York home in the rain.

WOMAN KILLED AT TUSCARORA

Pinned Beneath Car Which Overturns While Descending Mountain Sunday.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sweeney, wife of Harry Sweeney, of 2701 North Broad street, Philadelphia, was fatally hurt and her husband is suffering from a fractured calvicle as the result of a motor accident Sunday on the Tuscarora mountains near McConnellsburg, when the car in which they were riding overturned, pinning the occupants under the wreckage.

Mrs. Sweeney and her husband were taken to the Chambersburg hospital in the Good Will ambulance about noon where it was found Mrs. Sweeney was in a very serious condition. She was suffering from shock and had been internally hurt.

Mr. Sweeney is less seriously injured but received a fractured shoulder when the car overturned. He is also suffering from bruises and shock.

Mrs. Sweeney died shortly before 11 o'clock Sunday night from the injuries. She was aged 35 years. Immediately after her death Coroner Shull made an investigation and decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney at the time of the accident were descending the McConnellsburg side of the mountain. He found that his brakes were not working properly and had changed into second gear when the brakes locked and the car was turned over five times. Tourists who were passing at the time stopped and extricated the injured from the wreckage.

Deny Report of Attack On Premier

Berlin, July 26,—(AP)—The Roumanian legation has issued a denial of a report said to have been published abroad of an alleged attempt on the life of the Roumanian premier, Ionell Brattiano.

The statement also denied reports of disturbances in Bucharest, adding that the situation in Roumania is quiet.

COURTNEY HELD UP

Southampton, Eng., July 26.—(AP)—Weather conditions were again unfavorable today and there was no immediate prospect of Capt. Courtney taking off on his trans-atlantic flight which will be made from Ireland.

BANDIT TO GET LIFE TERM

Mineola, July 26.—(AP)—James F. Monahan, better known as "Boston Billy Williams," as he was being placed on trial for participation in the recent $90,000 jewel robbery at the home of Jesse L. Livermore, changed his plea to guilty yesterday. He will be sentenced Thursday and under the Baumes law life imprisonment is compulsory.

The stranger in our fair land is entitled to be told that "Rink Go" is the headline writer's shorthand for hockey contest.

FLYER BATTLES FIRE IN DROP

Plunges Seven Miles In Burning Plane After Establishing Altitude Record.

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—After battling flames on his airplane to protect the records of an unofficial world's record altitude flight estimated at 48,000 feet, Lieut. C. C. Champion, naval flier, received stunning news from the bureau of standards yesterday that on preliminary reading his instruments would show only 39,000 feet.

Unless revised reading should change this result, Champion for the present at least must leave to a Frenchman the honor of having flown highest, 40,820 feet.

The barographs were badly damaged by the fire which broke out on the plane during Champion's descent and he risked his life by remaining with the plane in order that he might same them.

His battle for life was spectacular. Several pistons were torn off his engine probably due to a lack of lubricating oil when he came down.

On the descent the engine caught fire on four different occasions and at one time the pilot was half way out of the cockpit preparing to jump when he decided to remain with the ship to save his instruments.

Flames were shooting out of the engine as the flier made a beautiful landing in a corn field.

Trap Notes

"By Trophy"

Local shooters finding it impossible to attend the registered event to be held at Rolling Green tomorrow will hold the regular Wednesday practice beginning at 3:30 o'clock. The usual program will be changed, and instead the shooters will be lined up in two teams, the Reds to be led by Mose Bair and the Blues by Bob Bell, the team members to be selected on the field. As an intresting change in the trophy arrangement, there will be a trophy awarded tomorrow to the winning team, and it will again be contested for among the winning team members in the handicap event. The final winner will be given the option of accepting the trophy, or its equivalent in cash. Bell and Bair are at work today lining up their squads, which may consist of any number of shooters.

Hill and Hughes, of the Hughesville club, toured the battlefield yesterday. Hill, who won the last league shoot with the fine score of nonety-seven, is a director and one of the original members of the Susquehanna league, having attended practically every shoot since the organization. Both men will attend the big two-day affair to be held here in September.

Local officers are open for suggestions for trophies for the annual event. So far two suggestions have come in: First that special eight lens binoculars are acceptable trophies, and and second, service revolvers, for high guns. It is planned to provide trophies this fall that will measure up to the list given two years ago, when a field of the best shots in the country were attracted to the local traps.

The team race tomorrow will be limited to probably one, and not more than two twenty-five target events. This is necessary, owing to the fact that every one is busy these days, and the time must be limited.

Huber and Martin will again officiate at the traps, and they ask the boys for more speed in calling "pull." Is there a squad fast enough to upset this pair of boys? We doubt it.

FOUR PRIESTS TO MARRY STILLMANS

Grand Anse, Que., July 26.—(AP).—The Rev. Ephram Lamy who will perform the marriage ceremony of James A. Stillman, Jr., and Miss Lena Wilson here today will be assisted by three other Roman Catholic priests.

The officiating priest is an old friend of both families. He has known Bud Stillman since the banker's son wore knickerbockers, and his acquaintance with the bride began on her first birthday anniversary.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stillman will leave for a destination described by friends as "Europe."

Grand Anse, Que., July 26.—(AP)—Villagers and woodland folk treked here today for the entry of Lena Wilson, daughter of the woods, into the wealthy and socially prominent Stillman family, of New York, as the bride of "Bud" Stillman.

Boats, buggies, motor cars and in fact almost every conceivable mode of conveyance brought the wedding guests who came from all points in the Three River district.

Many who were forced to travel rough roads started last night, heavy rains having left the trails deep in mud. A big boat from Grand Tiles started early today up the St. Lawrence river picking up 200 guests along the banks.

Garbed in their Sunday best they came to celebrate the forging of a tie between one of their own and the big house on the river.

There's one Progressive Senator not easy to handle. He doesn't eat breakfast.

CHAPTER ONE
The Locket

Killanmaul crowns the hills above the sea a good day's walk from Knockbotherum. Below, awash in the low tide, half a dozen fishing smacks ride perilously near to the black rocks of the shore line. The village looks to the west, and at sunset, when the sea becomes a meadow of golden red, the adventurous youth of Killanmaul dream dreams. In the heart of the sunset lies the rainbow gold of opportunity; beyond the horizon lies America. And since '48 the flower of Ireland's youth has sought and won laurels of prosperity and happiness in the land of Liberty.

The Irish Free State remains Erin, and the Irish still venture forth — carelessly, romantically, dreamily. Youth does not change with politics. Youth reads fairy tales in clouds and hears the call of other lands in the restless waves of the sea. Emmett Murtough was dissatisfied. He had outgrown Killanmaul, he believed. Little there was for him in this village in which his forefathers had lived and had died content with their lot, though the Lord knows there was never too much and not always plenty for their needs. This was not to be for Emmett Murtough. He would go to America, the land of plenty.

There were other reasons for Emmett's discontent. He had been the beau of Killanmaul. His blue black hair and his deep blue eyes, his sturdy figure and the songs he sang—they had proved irresistible to half a dozen colleens who had hoped for a wedding ring. From Killanmaul to Knockbotherum the farmers' daughters along the way had heard his voice in the night as he tramped his way homeward. Many the pretty miss there was who had passed the time of night with this gay young devil of Killanmaul. And some of them bowed their heads now when he passed with his eyes straight forward and his chin in the air. There was gossip. Indeed and indeed young Emmett had no right to play fast and loose with the girls of the county. The old women knew and the fathers of moonlight-mad daughters began to hear and to wonder at the downcast eyes of their Marys and Annies. At the village inn, kept by the talkative Widow O'Farrell, there were murmurings. Emmett liked it not. Marriage to any of them was not for him. To be tied down, indeed, with a bit o' land and a cow and a pig or two and the bother of "childer"—no; it was not for Emmett Murtough. Over there, across the horizon, were riches and glory.

Of course, now, there was Sheila Kildare. What would he do about her? Sheila who laughed when he tried out his bag of tricks upon her and who looked up into his eyes with all the love of her young heart when he told of his dreams and wooed her as one who would give her the ring and the name. A brave little baggage was Sheila! As Emmett mused over his wooing of her he felt his cheek reminiscently. A strong girl with a temper! The sting of the blow she had implanted there that night when he had forgot himself—and Sheila—smarted now. How could such a girl be so old-fashioned, the Murtough wondered; wanting to stay in Killanmaul and fearing to go into the West; content upon the run down farm of the Kildares. A good piece of land it was and with right working could be made into a profitable holding. But farming was not for Emmett Murtough. Besides Old Tom Kildare did nothing any more. The weeds grew rank over his potato vines, and Sheila could not attend to it all. If the farm were in good shape even the Murtough would consider it, but it was not for him to slave and sweat in the field. Across the sea there was a man's chance, the road to riches. And Sheila—well, Sheila would forget.

Yet the Murtough did not want Sheila to forget. There was a dainty girl and a lively girl, a girl a man might be proud to dress in silks and satins when good fortune smiled. Pictures of American women in their fineries arose in Emmett's eyes and he clothed Sheila in like apparel. He would send for her when he had won his place. Win his place he would; others who had gone before him had won riches; why shouldn't he? There was no doubt in the Murtough's dream.

Now Sheila loved Emmett Murtough, but she had no illusions as to his dreamy, romantic self. A practical girl she was with all her sweetness, and practical she had had to be, what with Old Tom to care for since her own dear mother had passed away. And him selling this and selling that until there was scarce a litter of pigs at pigging time and the potato vines empty at the roots and weeds a running over all. All for what? A jug of the "crathure" to keep him in spirits! Old Tom mourned his wife; and well he might. It was she who had cared for the farm and who had brought forth from its soil the living for Tom and the little Sheila. Tom Kildare had a been a handsome man and easy with the blarney. He would have made a great politician, so the frequenters of Mrs. O'Farrell's Inn had said with wise nods over their glasses. Had he not denounced with sentences ringing of ancient days the cruelty of England? He had indeed. But never did he venture forth in a fishing smack and seldom was he seen with a hoe in his own fields. The fate of Ireland was nearest and dearest to Tom Kildare during his good years and now that the good years were on the wane it was too late. So Sheila carried the burden of the Kildare farm and cottage and all its content.

"There was Sheila Kildare. What would he do about her?"

There are fairies in the deep woods of Killanmaul. Only the good at heart may see them but they are there dwelling at the roots of great trees and dancing upon lacy ferns in the silver moonlight. There is not a child born in the countryside but that the fairies foregather and upon the wee one confer the gifts of fortune. And, the more lowly the home the greater the gifts. It is the way of the fairies of Killanmaul. Now the fairies see far in the future; nor do they consider only the moment when the wee one first looks into its mother's eyes. The prosperous cottage of today may be the poverty hut of tomorrow and the fairies, wise in their goodness, bestow their gifts as the child shall need them. Well they knew Tom Kildare and his blarney and who can say that they did not know that the good mother of Sheila would pass away and that Sheila must have courage and bravery and goodness to contend with life. These gifts they bestowed upon her, the blue eyed baby who was now the active head of the Kildare home. Sheila dreamed of the fairies. But never had she known of their benefactions until that day of the Fair at Knockbotherum.

Not the oldest of the hundreds who attended the harvest fair at Knockbotherum knew of her origin, this wrinkled and weazened old woman who played upon the superstitions of her clients. The booth where she made her headquarters was one of constant awe for the boys and girls who would know their fate but who had not the pennies with which to question. Mother O'Reilly she called herself, but the country folk swore she was gypsy and they pointed credulous fingers at her shawl of many colors and the twisted red and yellow satin, weather stained and dirty, which crowned her grey head. Every year she came to Knockbotherum for the fair and many were the parents of grown children now who nodded at her as they passed the booth and recalled that day twenty years ago when she had foretold the love life that was to be theirs.

SHERIFF STOPS FREDERICK GAME

Players In Sunday Contest Post Bond and Then Resume Playing.

Frederick, July 26.—Frederick witnessed its first professional Sunday baseball game Sunday, despite the fact that the game was stopped at the end of the third inning and all participants arrested and forced to deposit $25 bond each for their appearance before Justice Alton Y. Bennett in police court later.

The game was resumed after the bonds had been posted by Samuel Rosenstood, a director of the Frederick Baseball Club, and resulted in a victory for Hagerstown over Frederick, 6 to 5.

Arrests Were Expected

With the exception of a few boos no demonstration occurred when Sheriff William C. Roderick walked onto the diamond and stopped the game. Deputy sheriff and police were on the ground prepared for trouble, but their services were not required.

A stoppage of the game had been anticipated and that fact was probably responsible for the record crowd of 2,000 present on McCurdy Field. Representatives of both of the teams had been informed that such action would be taken by the authorities if the game was started. That decision had been reached at a meeting Friday night of representatives of the city and county ministerial associations, the Lord's Day Alliance and the Law and Order League with State's Attorney William M. Storm and Sheriff Roderick.

Hagerstown Tried It Before

A Sunday game was played last year at Hagerstown and the players of both participating teams were arrested. When the case against them was tried the jury failed to convict.

Martinsburg, W. Va., which also has a team in the Blue Ridge League, had a game last Sunday and again Sunday without police interference.

REMEMBER how the soft foil cigarette package replaced the pasteboard box! Well, here's the same idea applied to pipe tobacco:

A heavy foil pouch, sealed in an extra wrapper of glassine

Experts say it is more "air-tight" than the ordinary pocket tin . . . it keeps Granger in perfect condition . . . fresh and full-flavored indefinitely! Another thing:

Foil costs less than a tin hence Granger's popular price

The managers of the Shippensburg State Normal school have a queer way of cyphering up the number of pupils They announce "the whole attendance last year was upwards of five hundred." The catalogue gives the names and residences of about one-third that number. As there were three terms, probably the 500 is reached by multiplying the actual number of pupils by three. There is a good deal of humbug about these normal schools.

E. church on West street purpose to hold a three days' meeting in Bigg's Grove, on the Taneytown road, about one mile south of Gettysburg, better known as the "Katy Guinn Woods," beginning Saturday, August 11. The Great Strike.—Nine States Unred Arms. Fight between Mob and Military in Baltimore.—Terrible Riot at Pittsburgh, Military Driven out of the City. The Mob Triumphant. Great Destruction of Property. Terrible sacrifice of life. The strike extending in all directions. United States Troops called for.—The past week has been one of intense excitement, somewhat akin to that which preceded the breaking out of the rebellion. It began on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, by the trainmen resisting a reduction of wages, and the first difficulty occurred at Martinsburg, West Virginia. A number of firemen and engineers left their trains at Martinsburg and when others offered to take their places at the reduced wages, the strikers wouldn't allow them to do so, dragging men from the engines, and giving out that no trains should pass Martinsburg until the company restored the old schedule of wages and complied with the demands of the rioters. The state militia failed to restore order and consequently U. S. troops were sent from Washington and Fort McHenry. On the appearance of these troops, the strikers dispersed and trains began to move.

The Strike Extending.—On Sunday the strike extended all along the Pennsylvania line. Trains were stopped at Altoona, Harrisburg and Columbia, the engineers and firemen being taken from the engines. In Philadelphia, there was much excitement.

Mayor Stokely applied to the president for aid to protect the U. S. buildings and the secretary of war telegraphed that troops would be sent at once.

From all quarters of the west, in New Jersey, New York and even in New England comes intelligence of strikes or impending strikes and the stoppage of freight traffic. The policy of the strikers seems to be not to interfere with mail trains. The governors of Ohio, New Jersey and New York have issued orders to the state militia to hold themselves in readiness for any emergency.

Harrisburg in Hands of the Mob.—The city is at the mercy of the mob and the police powerless. They announce their purpose to intercept all trains carrying troops. The Philadelphia troops, enroute from Pittsgurgh for Philadelphia, left the cars a few miles west of the city to work their way around. A mob of about 500 moved up and captured some 50 men, stragglers, and took their arms. At midnight the citizens were organizing vigilance committeees to prevent incendiarism.

Governor Hartranft Heard From.—Governor Hartranft had reached Cheyenne, Wyoming territory, on Friday, enroute for San Francisco, advised of the troubles in Pittsburgh. He immediately telegraphed to General Latta to call out the entire military force of the state, if necessary, and started for home on a special train.

Just Folks

THE DUB GOLFER

I'm the sensitive soul that is known as the dub!
I'm the fellow that's shunned by the boys at the club.
On the course I am slow,
And I get in the way.
There is much I don't know
About golf I may say.
I'm supposed to stand by when good golfers shout "fore!"
And if I refuse all the members get sore.
I'm never considered when matches are made,
But my bill always comes when the dues must be paid.

I'm laughed at by youngsters who drive straight and far.
I'm jeered at by boys who can shoot holes in par.
I'm a dub at the game
And I just plod along,
But I'll add, just the same,
That I'm one of a throng.
We may not be much in the tournament play,
We may clog up the course in our pitiful way.
We're not wanted out there, but they never forget
To assess us whenever they've run into debt.

I'm a dub with the many; despised by the few.
Old Hundred's the best I can possibly do.
But I notice when they
Post the names at the club
Of the boys who don't pay,
There is seldom a dub.
It's often the wonderful golfer who's short,
The fellow who shouts we've no place in the sport.
And I shudder to think what the clubs would be like
If we dubs got together and went on a strike.

INCIDENT MARS KING'S BURIAL

Undertakers Forget To Provide Ropes For Lowering of Body Into Grave.

Bucharest, July 26.—(AP)—King Ferdinand's funeral although carried out with magnificent precision and order was marred at its close by an incident that temporarily at least made it impossible for the authorities to place the king's body in the sepulcher.

At the moment of actual interment of the body, when a hush had fallen over the little church and when Queen Marie in her grief and physical exhaustion seemed about to totter upon her husband's grave, it was suddenly discovered that the undertakers had forgotten to provide the customary ropes with which to lower the coffin into the grave.

Little Jack Rabbit

by David Cory

"Hello, Professor Crow," cried the little rabbit, suddenly stopping beside the Old Stone Fence that bounded the Pleasant Pasture.

"Good morning," solemnly answered that wise old bird, gazing down from the apple tree. "Have you done your morning chores?"

"Oh yes, oh, yes," quickly replied the bunny boy.

"I've polished the doorknob shiny bright,
And brought in the kindling wood.
Filled the canary's water cup
And fed her with breakfast food."

"'At a boy," chuckled the old blackbird. "Helped Mother, didn't you?

"Help dear Mother all you can,
Even when a grown-up man.
Ne'er forget what she has done
For her little, careless son,"

"I thought I'd visit the sheep," after a moment's silence, explained the little rabbit.

"Well, there they are, over yonder in the Pleasant Pasture," advised Professor Crow. "I'll go with you. From my Wisdom Book I'll read you a thing or two, maybe three or four, about their habits," and clapping his wings, off flew the kind feathered teacher. After him hopped the little bunny, clipperty clip, lipperty lip, his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw. Goodness me, I hope it doesn't strike against something hard and break into a million splinters. He would have to wait a long time to get another, for his was the kind that only comes on Christmas trees.

Pretty soon the old Crow settled on a limb and, beckoning to his little rabbit friend, remarked: "A few of the little baby lambs were born so early in the spring that they had to be wrapped in a blanket to keep them warm. They have only an undercoat of short hair. Their mothers' clothes are much warmer as their undercoat of short hair is covered with an overcoat of long hair, which would fall off every spring were it not clipped by the Kind Farmer to be sold to merchants and made into clothes for little boys and girls.

"Who makes such nice warm clothing for the sheep?" asked the little rabbit.

"Nobody," chuckled Professor Jim Crow. "It just grows out of the sheep's skin like the fur on your own little body. But when this wool that covers the sheep is cut off it can be made into cloth and sewn together to make all kinds of clothes for people who can't grow their own clothes as we birds and you little animals grow feathers and fur."

"Goodness me, I never thought of that," cried the little rabbit.

"My feather coat grows out of my skin," went on the patient old Crow. "But before it begins to rain I must make it water-proof."

"How do you do that?" asked the curious little rabbit. But what the old professor bird answered you must wait to hear in the next story.

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 98 Pounds — Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Riessinger, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? Happiness?

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE MASKED WRITER

THE writer of these simple Talks makes no pretensions toward perfection of life, nor does he more than hope to be the embodiment in a small way of the ideals so often expressed, and the suggestions of conduct so imperfectly outlined.

Rather does he hope that in those ways in which he has so deeply failed he may faintly sketch a path over which stronger ones than he may safely and happily walk.

The many beautiful letters received from time to time fulfill the dream of his hours of planning and writing, by their expressions of appreciation, or of constructive criticism. But there is one thing this writer, as well as so many other writers, cannot understand, and that is that one who writes the letter of bitterness, of cynicism, and destructive criticism—and then hasn't the courage to sign a name. The masked writer.

I sat at the breakfast table of a very noted, as well as useful and inspiring writer, some time ago and read the letters of many who had written, but who failed to sign their names—themselves ashamed of their own cowardly expressions.

That writer merely smiled at the bitterest and most brutal of the letters—then passed them into the waste basket at his side. His thoughts of comment were his own.

The man who never does anything, or who never expresses his thoughts, never gets critized. But I sometimes think that he is the only one who is immune.

The bravest man, as a rule, is he who has gone through the most trouble; and he who writes most inspiringly is he who has suffered most. That is why he is brave and why he is able to lead others into better heart.

He who talks about his friend to his hurt, behind his back, is no friend at all, and he who writes the anonymous letter pours back his self-made poison into his own heart to his own hurt.

You can't harm the sincere man by secret thrusts, any more than you can hope to dim the light of the sun by making faces at it.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For only 75 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.—adv.

LIGHTNING

Can be and is Controlled

BY

The Dodd System

LIGHTNING destroys more property than all other elements combined. Hundreds of thousands of dollars every year goes to ashes by the worst known enemy to man.

HUNDREDS of housewives are killed every year standing by a stove when this demon hits the chimney and lodges in her body. Lightning is caused by two currents of electricity coming together at a given point and negative electricity is drained from buildings by means of Copper Lightning Conductors, properly grounded.

PROFESSOR DODD has proven this to the world for many years by his System, and that is the System we

Trade With Your Local Merchant

—A Few Reasons Why—

1. Money spent with him stays at home.
2. He helps you pay our taxes.
3. He helps support our churches.
4. He helps support our lodges.
5. He helps support all community enterprises.
6. He puts his money in our banks and keeps it there. Most foreign merchants check it out that night.
7. Money you spend with an out of town merchant or chain store never comes back to your home community.
8. The more business our local merchants have the more local employment for our people.
9. He is a home builder and is interested in your town.
10. Trade where your dollars stay at home. Spread the news.

Are You Working for Your Furnace?

Or Is Your Furnace Working for You?

Do you faithfully journey down to the cellar every cold morning to start the fire, shovel coal several times a day and bank the fire again at night? Do you religiously carry out the cinders and fill your lungs with soot and dust? If you do—you're doing a janitor's work and not getting paid for it.

ROUND OAK SUMMERHEAT

Automatic Fuel Oil Burner

Relieves you of all this work. Just set the room thermostat at the temperature you desire, and you are assured of a steady, constant supply of heat. Thermostatic control starts, stops, and controls the burner. The action is entirely automatic—it is superhuman in its efficient, economical operation.

Summerheat may be attached to any furnace without removing a single grate or bricking in the foundation. It operates through the feed door, leaving the furnace intact. Coal, wood, or garbage may be burned at any time if desired, giving the Summerheat a big advantage over the ordinary oil burner.

Summerheat is made by a concern that for 54 years has manufactured only the finest types of heating equipment. The name Round Oak is your guarantee of dependable heating service at low cost. It will pay you to investigate this remarkable burner and to see it in operation. Ask for the free description circular.

FREE DEMONSTRATION

Let us give you a free demonstration in your own furnace and see for yourself how this ROUND OAK OIL BURNER will perform. 'Phone or see us today and ask us to give you a demonstration. It is not necessary to take out any grates, build up with bricks—just place the oil blaze where your coal blaze performs.

No Obligation on Your Part to Buy—All We Ask, Compare This Burner.
